Lee, Woodward Chosen As New College Deans

Men's Dean Ends Duties With Navy

Former College Editor Known As Author Of Midd Epic

W. Storrs Lee assumed the duties of Acting Dean of Men at Middlebury College on September 1. The appointment, announced by Dr. Samuel S. Stratton, on August 16, became effective when Mr. Lee received his discharge from the U. S. Navy.

Editor at Middlebury

Previous to his entry in the Naval Reserve, Mr. Lee served as editor at Middlebury College for eleven years. He occupied this position from 1930 until 1941, when he was inducted into the Naval Reserve.

Mr. Lee was awarded his Bachelor of Arts degree from Middlebury College in 1928. He spent the following year studying in England as a Dutton Fellow at Oxford. Mr. Lee is a member of Delta Upsilon, Kappa Phi Kappa and Pi Delta Epsilon.

Mr. Lee is the author of two well-known books which deal with the histories of Middlebury College and the town of Middlebury. His first book, Father Went to College, was published in 1936. The more recent Stage Coach North was published in 1941.

Former Deans

Dr. Boylston Green, who came to Middlebury in 1941, resigned his position as Acting Dean of Men and Assistant Professor of English on June 30. On September 1, Doctor Green took the office of president of Emerson College in Boston.

Prof. Russell G. Sholes, head of the sociology department, filled the position of Acting Dean of Men until Mr. Lee assumed the position in September.

New Dean Served On Barnard Staff

Recently Acted as Dean Of Child Education Foundation

Mrs. Millicent Cox Woodward, who is the new Dean of the Women's college, assumed her duties at Middlebury on September 1.

Dean Woodward attended Mills college and the University of California and received her Bachelor of Arts degree at the latter. Although she is a native Californian, she feels she has very close ties with New England. She received her Master of Arts degree at Radcliffe college and was for several years on its administration staff. Before coming to Middlebury she served as Dean of the Child Education Foundation which is an affiliate of New York university. She has also done administrative work and teaching at Barnard college.

Dean Woodward considers Middlebury to be a charming college and doubts that anyone could fail to enjoy working here. She is pleased that Middlebury is among the co-educational eastern colleges, of which there are few. In addition to meeting members of the student body in groups, she is anxious to know each student individually.

College Theatre To Present First Play Next Month

Tryouts for "Death Takes a Holiday," first Middlebury College Players play of season, have been held last night and tonight at the Playhouse. The play, which is a comedy in three acts, will be presented at the Playhouse one of the evenings of November 22, 23 and 24. "Death Takes a Holiday" was written by Alberto Casella and contains many parts for both men and women in its cast. Rehearsals for the cast will begin next Monday, October 29.

Students of all classes are eligible to try out for all Players plays.

WAA Chairmen Chosen to Lead Term Program

Jane H. Strayer '47, was chosen head of the W.A.A. Cabin at a meeting of the Women's Athletic association held on Monday, October 22, in McCullough gymnasium.

Assistant head of the cabin for this year will be Jean Gunther '47. Marcey S. Lynn '46, was chosen manager of volleyball, which is expected to begin the end of next week.

A picnic will be held this Saturday at the cabin at Ripton for the old and new councils. Joan H. Roessle '48, is in charge of refreshments. Usually the picnic for the outgoing and incoming councils is held in the spring, but it had to be postponed. While at the cabin, the council will clean it up and get it in shape for the year.

At the meeting it was also decided to award managers of sports 100 points, as well as giving the players points.

W.A.A. plans to have hockey scrimmages from 4 to 5 p.m. this week and next if the field is dry. There will be no credit given for participation and no All-Midd team will be chosen.

Jones Made New Coach Of Ski Team

Severe Training To Ready Squad For Full Season

Middlebury's ski team, championship squad of last year's eastern competition, will begin practice early in November under the coaching of Joseph Jones, former ski trooper and high scoring man in Middlebury meets last season.

Pico Instructor

Since leaving Middlebury, Coach Jones has been employed at Pico in Rutland in preparation for the coming ski season. Working now to prepare the famous trails of the Rutland resort, Jones will begin active instructing as soon as there is sufficient snow. His duties at Pico will extend from Thursday to Sunday of each week, while the remainder of his time will be spent in Middlebury coaching the new squad. However, he plans to spend all of the Middlebury Carnival week-end at college.

Training of the squad will begin with regular cross-country running early in November. On November 2, Coach Jones will hold a meeting of all those wishing to try out for the team and on the following day he plans to make an inspection trip of the Breadloaf trails. Middlebury's Carnival events, held on the Chipman downhill run for the past three years, are to be returned this year to the longer and more difficult run on Breadloaf mountain. Jumping, however, will be held from the regular 30-meter tower at Chipman.

Full Schedule

Although not as strong as last year's squad, the Middlebury ski team will face a full schedule with regular carnivals at Dartmouth, West Point and Harvard, and single meets at Lake Placid and various other New England colleges. Moreover, Coach Jones plans to enter his

New Appointments To Various Posts List Bagu, Crosby

Thirteen new appointments to the college faculty have been made by the administration this fall.

Among these, Mr. Sergio Bagu comes to Middlebury as a lecturer in the Spanish department. A native of Argentina, Mr. Bagu has his master of arts degree from the University of Buenos Aires. An authority on economics and political science, he has been lecturer at the Universities of Buenos Aires and LaPlata, and has been a member of the faculty of the Spanish Summer school at Middlebury college for the past two years.

In 1943 Mr. Bagu served as a member of the commission to study postwar social problems at the University of Plata, and was also a guest of the U. S. Department of State in the same year.

He is the author of several books in Spanish on Argentinian economic problems, and has contributed widely to Argentine periodicals. Since coming to this country he has lectured extensively for the Writers' Congress, University of California, New England Institute of International Relations, Wellesley college, and Columbia university.

He will teach advance courses on Spanish civilization and literature at Middlebury.

College Opens October 18 With Stratton's Address

Pres. Stratton Explains Sun. Vespers Rule

The Protestant ministers of the town of Middlebury sent a letter recently to President Samuel S. Stratton protesting the recently reinstated college rule that all students with the exception of Roman Catholics are required to attend Sunday chapel. The letter stated that this was a case of religious discrimination.

In reply to the letter, President Stratton reported that this decision was a return to the rule which existed prior to 1942. In that year Vice-president Stephen A. Freeman, at that time acting president, amended the rule to the effect that all students could be excused from attendance at Sunday chapel if they attended a service of their own faith. Last spring President Stratton, Vice-president Freeman and other members of the administration decided to reutrn to the previous rule.

The following is teh text of the letter:

"We, the undersigned Protestant ministers of Middlebury, Vt., protest that the decision of the administration to allow an exception to the statement on page 25 of the 1945-1946 Catalogue number of the Middlebury College Bulletins, which reads 'Students are required to attend daily chapel services led by distinguished clergymen and educators,' in favor of one group, namely that students who belong to the Roman Catholic church may attend Sunday Mass instead of the college vespers, is a religious discrimination against students who are members of the college community and have other religious affiliation. The administrative decision grants rights to some students and not to others on the sole basis of religious affiliation. The statement on page 24 of the 1944-1945 Middlebury Handbook underlines this discrimination.—'All students are required to attend chapel each day, including Sundays. . . .'

"We regret that in conference with you, Dean Lee, Dean Woodward and Chaplain Jenkins, we could not have it understood that we were not questioning

65 Veteran Men Present at Midd On 146th Opening

Women Outnumber Men As College Returns To Peace

President Samuel S. Stratton formally opened Middlebury's first peace-time semester in almost four years with an address to the student body on Thursday, October 18, in Mead Chapel. The 146th anniversary of the college found an enrollment of 550 women and 148 men.

Non-curriculum Goals

For the 51 freshman men, 140 freshman women, and 14 transfers, President Stratton's speech climaxed an orientation program that had included tours of Starr Library, a reception at President and Mrs. Stratton's home, Middlebury movies and songs at the Playhouse.

In his address the president listed three "non-curriculum goals" for the college student; one, the achievement of self-discipline; two, progress toward social maturity; three, development of a zest for and joy in independent initiative and intellectual tasks. He thanked all those members of the college, both students and faculty, who had remained loyal and uncomplaining during the numerous inconveniences that war had brought to Middlebury's campus. The president's closing wish was for a prosperous and productive year for the entire college.

Freshman Week

Registration for the fall semester began with the arrival of the Freshmen on Monday, October 15, and continued through the following Wednesday. Freshmen were given a chance to meet their prospective professors and instructors the previous evening at a reception in Egbert Starr library. From then on the week was a full one for the newcomers. Wednesday the class of 1949 took psychological and reading tests in the morning, made a tour of the library in the afternoon, followed by the traditional freshman outing on the women's athletic field. Sponsored by the Mountain club, the outing included a scavenger hunt for familiar landmarks and oddities of the college, games and singing in Forest Rec and a final get-together supper in McCullough gymnasium.

Technicolor films of Middlebury taken by various professors on campus were shown Wednesday evening at the Play-

Alan Carter Engages In Work to Aid Veteran Housing Problem Here

Prof. Alan Carter, vice-commander of the local American Legion Post, worked with a local committee this summer on questionnaires concerning available rooms for returning veterans and their wives and it is reported that enough replies were received to relieve the problem for this term.

Horace S. Ford, treasurer of Massachusetts Institute of Technology was chairman of the committee appointed by the trustees to work on the housing problem. Dog Team Tavern, Breadloaf Inn, Mack Cabins, the Willows, and the Gables were all considered, but due to various inconveniences such as ownership, heating facilities and sewage, or they could not be used. Portable houses are now being considered.

FREE SPEECH

A recent addition to the pages of the CAMPUS has been the column "Free Speech." At the opening of a new college year, a reiteration of the feature's aim may serve a two-fold purpose.

First, the availability of an open platform to the college community should be invaluable. "Free Speech" provides a place for sane discussion of strictly collegiate matters or for comments on any topic pertinent to the diversified yet united groups at Middlebury. A contribution may extend a vote of thanks for a job well done, or it may point out some problem on campus that needs attention. Perhaps most important of all, "Free Speech" has the potentialities of replacing rumor with truth. A contribution from an uninformed source in search of information would naturally give rise to an answer with the accurate facts.

It is the CAMPUS policy that a letter that does not have fact as its base will not be printed without an accompanying editor's note giving the true information. If the dust of rumor and misinformation can be laid by a contribution of unintentional distortion and the subsequent printing of the truth, then such letters have a place in the column.

But the second purpose for restating the aim of "Free Speech" is to make clear the limitations of such a column. Its potentialities are great, but unless they are kept within bounds, freedom will turn to license. The original policy stated that expression of personal prejudice or animosity had no place in the feature. Its sole reason for being is the general good and better understanding of all in the college community. Any contribution that shows genuine thought and interest in the college on the part of the contributor will be gladly accepted by the CAMPUS. With this policy in mind, "Free Speech" should face a successful year.

RENAISSANCE

This is a story of a boy who is alive in Paris today. We knew him before the war when he lived in a good home in the suburbs of Paris. Well-fed, well-clothed, well-loved by his parents, it was the natural course of events that he plan to enter the University of Paris in the autumn of 1941. Then he became "occupied" and his well regulated life and happiness was shattered into a million pieces. A life of suppressed hate and concealed actions began. Just recently has the true story of the years with the Boche come out of France. Miracle after miracle of heroism and selflessness is being retold to us today. The boy we knew has seen much and will remember much. He himself helped to form the barricades from paving stones in the streets of Paris and to drive the Hun from France.

When his first letters came after the liberation and after three years of comparative silence, they seemed almost from a different man. But there was one thing that remained the same. He spoke of entering the University this autumn, 1945. Defeated once in his normal progression to higher education, he is even more determined to achieve his ambition. A man now, with a man's knowledge of the filthier side of humanity, his words were filled with the enthusiasm and delight of a young, inexperienced but eager student.

It seems that before the "Fall" the University was an accepted step in his life, but now he feels it is a necessity. He, like so many young Frenchmen and women, sees the need for the education of their nation and the world. They have set themselves immediately to answer this need with a record breaking enrollment at the University. Today in the class rooms and lecture halls "undiscovered to themselves are French men and French women who will govern, guide, illumine, adorn, entertain, heal or distinguish the France of the future."

This is not a story without a purpose. How could it be? Here we are, more or less as a normal course of events, pursuing a higher education, with the impetus of peace behind us. The period of the next three, four, or five months may be the last time in the years to come in which we will have time, the all-essential, to determine the direction in which we are going and what lies in that direction. This is not another plea for the old Midd spirit but a personal go-ahead for each of us individually.

We are beginning a new year with new courses. We must search for some meaning in every lecture that pertains to us, to those outside Middlebury, to those on the other side of the Atlantic and Pacific. We're looking for ideas that are new and real. If we don't know, we listen! If we want to know, we read! We won't condemn the Russians, the British, the Jews, Labor, or the new income tax but we will find out what's wrong. We'll get behind the Conference and remember what's said afterwards.

We must fight the fatalistic prophecy of the coming greater inflation, depression, and dole. Because of suppression, self-denial, and a crumbling society, the youth of France didn't crawl in and pull the earth in after them. A crusade for truth in France equalled only by the rebirth after the Dark Ages has come out of bondage. What can't we do?

Paragraphs from The Summer

The annual meeting of the Alumni council, was held Saturday morning, October 13 for registration and a business meeting and that evening met jointly with the Alumnae council. Talks by President Samuel S. Stratton, Dean Millicent C. Woodward, and Acting Dean W. Storrs Lee, highlighting this session, were followed by college movies.

The council terminated its meeting after a luncheon on Sunday, October 14, following the graduation ceremonies in Mead Chapel, which the visiting alums had attended.

Irwin K. French, college business manager, was host to the Educational Buyers' association which met during the week of October 8 preceding graduation. This group is composed of about 50 business managers, purchasing agents and treasurers from schools in the New England area.

The engagement of Virginia E. Ciuffreda '48, to Francis P. Foster, a former V-12 student at Middlebury, was announced in August.

Professor and Mrs. Harry M. Fife have announced the engagement of their daughter, Ensign Nona M. Fife '44, of the WAVES, to Lieut. William W. Peck of Middlebury.

An all day meeting of the Board of Trustees was held Saturday, October 13.

The engagement of Virginia M. Hodder '47 to Richard Rand was announced recently.

The engagement of Helen S. Riggs '46 to George W. Rice has been announced.

Nancy C. Surtees recently became engaged to Robert J. Taylor, U.S.N.R.

June S. Brogger '46 and Ensign William F. Hartnett, a former member of Middlebury's V-12 unit, have announced their engagement.

The engagement of Jane C. Billings '46 to George W. Webb, U.S.A., formerly of the class of '46 and a member of Theta Chi fraternity has been announced.

Barbara E. Rupp '46 was married July 7 in Shaker Heights, Ohio, to Ensign William G. Lister, U.S.N.R., a graduate of Yale university, and a member of Beta Theta Pi fraternity.

Nancy L. Peel '46 was married to David McKinstry Speers in Swarthmore, Pa., on August 25.

Dr. Gilmore Warner, former acting librarian of Middlebury college is now librarian at Colby college, according to an announcement by J. Seeleye Bixler, president.

Dr. Warner has been associated with the New York Public library, Huntington library in California and the English departments of the American university at Cairo, Egypt, Yankton college, South Dakota, and Middlebury college.

Returning Greeks Reform Fraternity Council at College

Group Considers Plans To Open Rushing Next Term

Fraternity rushing will start on or about March 15, 1946. Although there are at present only 20 fraternity men on the campus from seven of the eight houses, they expect to have enough members by next term to follow out the plans for rushing and pledging which are now being laid.

Adopting the suggestion of Dean W. Storrs Lee at last Friday's meeting of the undergraduate men, a newly formed interfraternity council took office this week, with John D. Hunt as its temporary chairman.

All but Theta Chi fraternity are represented by undergraduate members, the plan being that each fraternity should offer two undergraduate and one graduate member to the council. In the event that any fraternity is not fully represented, the regular three votes are allotted to as many delegates as are present.

Council Members

The following men were chosen by each fraternity nucleus: Alpha Sigma Phi, undergraduates, Robert B. Rowley Term 7 and John D. Hunt Term 3, graduate, Mr. Charles Cutting; Chi Psi, Alexander W. Calder Term 6, Alan Wolfley Term 5 and Mr. Richard C. Hubbard; Delta Kappa Epsilon, Charles A. Scott Term 6, Hugh H. Mathews Term 5 and Mr. Robert D. Hope; Delta Upsilon, Russell P. Dale, Jr. Term 8, Robin D. Willits Term 4 and Prof. Perley C. Voter; Kappa Delta Rho, Charles R. Boberts Term 7, Thomas H. Moore Term 5 and Mr. Les W. Ingalls; Sigma Phi Epsilon, George F. Weimann Term 6, Janus C. Lindner Term 4 and Mr. Milt P. Eagan. Sigma Alpha's only representative is Edward M. Flaherty Term 4, while Theta Chi will be sponsored by a graduate member, Prof. Russell G. Sholes.

War Interlude

Fraternity life officially ended at Middlebury in the spring and summer of 1943. At a final meeting of the council, it was voted that all such activities be suspended during the war and that any pledging or initiating done during that period should be considered null and void. A majority vote of all Greeks on campus was required before the fraternity system should be reopened. This was secured last Friday when the group of sixteen such men gave a unanimous assenting vote.

The meeting of the Greeks followed an address by Dean W. Storrs Lee to the entire men's undergraduate body. Mr. Lee announced plans for the coming year, gave a brief historical review of Middlebury rules and traditions, and generally acquainted himself with the men's undergraduate body.

Tryout System To Be Adopted By Dance Club

The Modern Dance group held its first meeting Wednesday, October 25, in the gym, for warm-up exercises and an explanation of the new try-out system which was inaugurated this year.

Students were asked to first fill out a form listing their previous dancing experience, and then they were judged as to technique and original composition. There will be two groups, one more advanced than the other. The less experienced group will meet with the advanced group on Wednesday and separately on Friday. Regular meetings will be held on Wednesday and Friday at 4 o'clock.

Carolyn W. Leach '47, has been chosen president this year.

The Bennington Dance group of Bennington college, Bennington, Vt., is coming here December 1 for a performance to which the public is invited. The hour and place will be announced later.

YOUR LIBRARY

A Word of Welcome

The opening of another college year again finds on the campus professors and students new to Middlebury, as well as those who have been here before.

The Library welcomes back its old friends, and extends to newcomers an invitation to find here recreation as well as aid to study.

In the main reading room are reference books for scholarly moments and fiction for general reading; in the stacks, books in many fields of interest. Reading assigned by professors is conveniently collected in the reserve book room.

A collection of books on painting, architecture, and allied subjects may be found in the fine arts room. The Abernethy room not only provides a quiet and pleasant atmosphere for reading, but also houses an outstanding collection of American literature, with a special section on Thoreau. In the browsing room may be found a wide selection of current magazines and a small collection of books chosen especially for leisure reading.

All of these facilities are available to you, and the Library staff is ready to help you as much as possible: to answer reference questions, explain the location or use of books and other material, and give advice on your leisure reading or additions to your personal library.

Please feel free to ask for any information that you need, to make suggestions of any kind, and to indicate subjects you should like to see discussed in this column. Book reviews, literary questions and answers, articles on particular authors or types of reading, information on the Library and its resources—do these topics interest you? Or have you other ideas?

We look forward to seeing you.

Free Speech

The editors are not responsible for opinions expressed in this column unless they are clearly prefaced by "Editors' Note."

To the CAMPUS Staff:

I wish to convey my whole-hearted appreciation for the copies of the CAMPUS I've been regularly receiving. High enough praise for that activity cannot be adequately expressed.

It is not alone for the pleasant recollections each copy brings (there are many in this existence of memory and hope), that I express my happiness, but also for the realization that constructive liberal thinking is still going on in the world. I am especially pleased to see the feature "Free Speech" and the interest surrounding it.

To all you Midd students who help publish the CAMPUS a hearty "Well Done!" and, again, my sincere gratitude.

BENJAMIN BRADLEY, JR., RT1/c,

To the Editors:

It has been brought to our attention that the college administration this year has made a discriminatory ruling which grants the special privilege of absence from Sunday vespers to college students of one denomination, and not to those of other denominations. This is clearly a case on discrimination on the basis of religious affiliation. Shouldn't we all be treated alike in a democracy?

A SENIOR.

Editors' Note:

We refer the writer of the above letter to the story on page one which concerns this issue.

Dr. Holmes to Give Vespers Address

Dr. Henry W. Holmes, professor of higher education at the Harvard Graduate School of Education, will address the student body at vespers Sunday in Mead chapel.

He was dean of the school for several years, and chairman of the doctorate committee. In addition to writing numerous books and articles, he is a well known radio speaker on educational subjects.

R. Cook Appointed Director Of Breadloaf English School

First Peacetime Session To Open For Full Six Weeks

Reginald Lansing Cook, professor of American Literature, has been appointed Director of the Breadloaf School of English, one of the seven summer schools of the college. He is the fourth director in the school's 27-year history.

Professor Cook holds the A.B. degree from Middlebury college, and the A.M. from the Breadloaf School of English. He is also a graduate of Oxford university, England, where he went as a Rhodes Scholar in 1926. He is a member of Phi Beta Kappa and Kappa Delta Rho and has been with the Middlebury college faculty since 1929.

The Breadloaf School of English will open next summer on its regular peacetime schedule of six weeks. During the war, the facilities of the Breadloaf campus had to be shared with the Spanish school, which necessitated shortening the session to four weeks. Next summer, with no navy unit on the campus, the Spanish school will be held in Middlebury along with the schools of French, Italian and Russian.

The Breadloaf School of English opened in 1920 under the direction of Wilfred Davison. Upon his death in 1929, Dr. Robert M. Gay of Simmons college became director. He served in this capacity until 1936 when Harry G. Owen, professor of English and Fine Arts at Middlebury college, was appointed. In September, 1942, Professor Owen entered the U. S. Naval Reserve and Dr. Hewette E. Joyce served as Acting Director for the last three years.

Project of Starr Hall Renovations To Begin Nov. 15

The first step into post-war activity on the Middlebury campus will be a complete renovation of Starr Hall. At the completion of its rejuvenation the dormitory will closely parallel its companion hall, Painter, in interior construction. It will have capacity for 70 students living either in double suites, of which there will be 22, or in 26 single rooms.

One of the more important functional improvements will be an entirely fireproof construction with the added safety measure of a fire door between the north and south sections.

As materials are already arriving and work will begin on November 15, the present occupants will have to vacate the premises by November 3, and move to Gifford. After November 3, all men will be housed in Gifford and the Chi Psi lodge.

The contractors are the Trumbull Associates of Hanover, N. H. The members of this firm were formerly with Hageman and Harris of New York City, who, in 1937, carried out the work at Painter hall.

It is expected the dormitory will again be ready for occupancy possibly by July 1, and in all certainty by September 1.

TEN ART EXHIBITS SCHEDULED HERE

Ten exhibits will be sponsored by the Fine Arts department this year, under the direction of Arthur K. D. Healy, artist-in-residence. All exhibits will be hung in Forest hall and will be open to the public. They are obtained by Mr. Healy for two-week periods through the co-operation of the American Museum of Art in New York.

The list of exhibits and dates of their showing in Middlebury are:

Oct. 20-Nov. 3—American Painting.
Nov. 10-Nov. 24—15 Modern Water Colors.
Dec. 1-Dec. 15—Planning the Modern House.
Jan. 5-Jan. 19—Actors and Clowns.
Jan. 22-Feb. 5—Lithographs.
Feb. 19-Mar. 5—19th Century Leaders.
Mar. 10-Mar. 24—American Painters.
April 1.-Apr. 15—Introduction to Modern Sculpture.
April 25-May 9—Picasso, Matisse, Klee and Rouault.
May 11-May 25—Introduction to Modern Painting.

Traditional Teas Held to Welcome Entering Women

Campus Leaders Explain Extra-Curricula Activities

The old tradition of welcoming the freshmen with an informal tea in Starr Library was revived this year by the Student Union on Monday, October 15. About thirty-five girls served and directed the group.

Thursday, October 18 an informal tea was held in Pearsons living room to welcome the freshmen and to give them an idea of the extra curricula activities on campus. Mortar Board members acted as hostesses with Virginia M. Hodder '47 in charge. Janet Shaw '46 was in charge of the invitations and Laura Lee Hopkins '47 took care of refreshments.

Representative speakers of the various organizations were: Cultural Conference, Jane M. Laux '46; Choir and Musical clubs, Barbara Rupp Lister '46; Interfaith and Mortar Board, Margaret B. Hood '46; Point System, Rebecca A. Fraser '46; Mountain club, Eileen Luz '46; S. A. A., Mary H. Albertson '46; W. A. A., Ann A. Argyle '47; Panhellenic council, Jane H. Strayer '47; Dramatic club, Janet H. Kasper '46; Forum, June S. Brogger '46; CAMPUS Editorial Staff, Esther L. Walsh '47; CAMPUS Business Staff, Mary J. Selleck 46; Kaleidoscope, Charlotte A. Davis '47.

At the playhouse Friday, October 19 the freshmen were again welcomed at a Student Union meeting. Barbara L. Grigg '46, president of Student Union, explained the form and function of Student Union, and also the part that each freshman would play in this self governing body. Dean Millicent Cox Woodward was introduced and spoke informally.

The annual presentation of Midd-Nite, which was held Saturday, October 20 in the high school gym, was organized by Virginia M. Hodder '47. The mechanics of putting out an issue of the CAMPUS, was the integrating theme which connected the various acts. As the reporters went in search of their assignments, the audience was taken along to view the various activities of the college. Such activities as the Playhouse, Mountain Club, Dance Club, Women's chorus and Registration were portrayed by members of the sophomore and junior classes. The final act and the hit of the evening was, as usual, the singing by the senior women, directed by Elizabeth B. Carr '46. Margaret MacCormick '47, directed the juniors and Helen L. Hicks '48 took charge of the sophomores.

Matters Of Record

Burch Day

At the risk of drawing cries of "padding" from the literary big-wigs, allow me to present an item or two in the way of local color. This is to be a critique of most of the latest record releases as they are made available. Any such effort is influenced very naturally by the writer's own prejudices; the success or failure of the column will depend on my ability to convince you that we have tastes pretty much in common. In other words, when Day says it smells and should be sent to entertain the Germani, that's the way it will affect your sensitive ears. If such is not the case and you find your favorites consistently panned, if you swoon and I consign to the scrap heap, please let me know.

Frank Sinatra

Let's talk for just a moment about the voice. Perhaps some of you remember when our hero was quavering in front of Harry James' band, sometime during '38 and '39. The voice you hear in these recordings is not the smooth tutored product that you hear today, but in my opinion it is as good, if not a little better.

Consider the very popular All or Nothing at All, made with an early James group. When the record first appeared, it fell flat. The tune was unknown, the singer was unknown, and the craze at that time was for the more finished danceable bits turned out by the carload by men of the Miller variety. The Columbia studios, in spite of an expensive publicity campaign, made their discs sound like they were made in Grand Central sta-

Season's Plans For Basketball Made by Coach

With the return to college of several former squad men to support present varsity material at school, a prospective basketball schedule of 14 games has been drawn up by Coach Arthur M. Brown.

First game of the season will be held at Union college on Saturday, December 8, and the season will continue into the second semester until March 2, with a closing game against St. Lawrence. First and second string men will be chosen from four intramural teams that will be formed next week. An intensive series of games for the next two weeks, from October 29 to November 10, will give Coach Brown an opportunity to look over his material and make selections for a starting varsity team. Games will be held three or four nights a week so as to complete a 12-game rotation between all four squads.

Four men of the returning group have previously played either varsity or junior varsity ball with Middlebury. Russell P. Dale is the only former varsity member, while Charles R. Bobertz, Louis G. Ensinger and James C. Lindner have all seen junior varsity seasons. Coach Brown is looking to this group as a good basis for a full squad of men and has therefore completed the following schedule of games:

Saturday, Dec. 8, Union .....Away
Wednesday, Dec. 12, Clarkson ....Home
Tuesday, Dec. 18, St. Michael's...Away
Friday, Jan. 11, Clarkson .....Away

College Given Naval Appreciation Award By Lieut. Lybarger

STRATTON GIVES CLOSING SPEECH

President Samuel S. Stratton, in addressing the graduation class of 30 students at Mead Chapel, Sunday morning, October 14, expressed his belief that the "impact of war on your education here has quickened and intensified the development of your character and of your intellect."

The Impact of War

He went on to state that instead of the detrimental effect to the student's college career which might have been expected as a result of war, a new and truer set of values had been gained. As he put it, "during these difficult war years you were more in earnest than were your peace time predecessors; you were more sensitive to the fundamental issues that stirred the world beyond the college campus and the tempo and atmosphere of a war-time college accelerated not only your accumulation of course credits, but more significantly accelerated your own intellectual maturity."

Post-war Problems

Quoting the current saying, originally from London, that the "duration is going to be a lot longer than the war," President Stratton added that post-war problems will exact "greater intellect and character than as citizens we have ever in the past achieved." "At the same time, however," went on President Stratton, "the potentialities for individuel welfare and achievement far surpass those of any other ear in our history."

Great as he feels these potentialities are, President Stratton stated as his belief that they can be realized only by the "individual efforts of intellectual and enlightened individuals," and added that this generation has both a rare opportunity and a real duty in assuming the responsibilities of leadership, which, if followed through, will enable them to "look with confidence for the peace, the prosperity and the happiness that should follow our costly victory over evil men and evil governments."

Lybarger's Presentation

The Naval V-12 unit which has been stationed at Middlebury since July, 1943, and which left October 20, was present at

Call Issued for Students' Help on Breadloaf Trails

Middlebury's ski trails are in terrible shape because they have not been cleared for three years, the Mountain club has reported. All students who would like to help clear them may sign up their free afternoons on the Munroe Hall bulletin board.

Students volunteering for this work will be giving service to the college. Men will be given physical education credit. They will spend some Saturday nights at Breadloaf.

Winnie the Pooh

By Peter Funck '46

In which we organize a search for all ungrown-up grown-ups who still believe or know how to believe or want to believe in such funny creatures as a Heffalump, Piglet, Eeyore or a Winnie the Pooh.

Now you won't find the word Heffalump in any of those big books they call dictionaries. I've already looked. In fact, I'm terribly afraid that somebody will come up to me and try to find out what one is. And then the only thing to do would be to hum a few lines of Pooh's "tiddelypom," that is if Pooh wouldn't mind too much. But if you really want to know, then why don't we go to the Enchanted Forest somewhere over the next hill? Come on, it's easy.

Convenient Location

You see? Here we are. And now it's just a skip and a jump to Pooh corner or to Christopher Robin's house. Maybe Owl will be there and he certainly will know, as he is very good at long words. In fact, Owl is smart about everything like that. Remember the time he got poor Eeyore back his tail? Or maybe it should be "got his tail back." But then we can ask Owl about that maybe too. Anyway, it seems as if Eeyore had lost his tail and it seems as if Pooh went to call on Owl about it and it seems that Owl had just the solution when he gave Pooh Eeyore's tail which he had found on a nearby bush, it seems. So Eeyore got back his tail.

Pooh's Sweet Tooth

But Pooh is always eating honey so we can probably find him somewhere around a honey tree. Yes, there are honey trees, especially in the Forest; otherwise what would Pooh do when he felt 11 o'clockish? And wouldn't it be silly for him to climb honey trees if there were no such things? If he isn't eating honey, and right now he shouldn't be because it's about a quarter to, he may be around somewhere else talking to Eeyore. If we get close by the river where Eeyore lives maybe we can hear:

"Why, what's the matter, Eeyore?

"Nothing, Pooh bear, nothing. We can't all and some of us don't. That's all there is to it."

I might as well tell you now that Eeyore is my favorite and if you don't move me now we will stay right here for the rest of our visit and never get to meet Christopher Robin, Kanga, Piglet, Small or any of the rest.

And then there is Pooh's poem about:

If Rabbit
Was Bigger
And Fatter
And Stronger
Or Bigger
Than Tigger . . .

And so on.

S. Freeman Given Charge of French Language School

Dr. Stephen A. Freeman, vice-president of the college, has taken charge of modern language instruction in the recently organized United States Army university at Biarritz, France, famous resort of former royalty on the Atlantic coast of southern France. Lieut. Kurt R. Petshek, former instructor of economics at Middlebury, is also there, teaching business courses.

Enrollment in the school totals 4,000 GI's who stay in resort hotels and villas. While waiting for transportation home, they are offered a term of study on the college level. One of the main functions of this college on the beach is adjustment back to the natural civilian life.

Dr. Freeman, who is professor of French and dean of the French school, Middlebury, accepted his position in the Education Branch of the U. S. Army on June 14, 1945. His leave of absence from Middlebury extends till April 1, 1946. He assisted in recruiting the Biarritz faculty this summer on very short notice from universities all over America.

team into all four events of each meet, that is cross-country, jumping, downhill and slalom.

Special emphasis will be placed on cross-country as a basis for the eight-mile run at Breadloaf and for all other types of ski competition. Unused for three years, the Breadloaf trails are in need of clearing and repair before the carnival in January.

Middlebury is sending three representatives this week-end to the annual U. S. Eastern Ski convention at Bear Mountain. Thomas H. Cremer '48, member of last year's team, and Joseph B. l'Episcopo '48, manager, will be accompanied by Prof. Perley C. Voter at discussions of ski activities of both college and high school groups.

New Appointments

Library Changes

Also, two changes in the staff of the Middlebury College Library have been announced by the administration. Mrs. Margaret L. Fayer has been appointed acting librarian and Miss Louise Evelyn Robinson reference librarian.

Mrs. Fayer has been acting Editor at the college since November, 1943. A graduate of the University of California at Los Angeles with an A.B. degree and of Columbia university with a B.S. in library science, she has had wide experience in library work in California and New York.

Miss Robinson was graduated from Middlebury College and secured her library training at Simmons. She comes to Middlebury from the West Hartford Public Library in West Hartford, Conn.

Rosamond E. Larmour

Miss Rosamond E. Larmour is assistant dean of freshman women and social director for women. Miss Larmour has been director of home students at the New Jersey College for Women during the past two years, assisting in student counselling and social activities. A native of Norfolk, Va., Miss Larmour received the A.B. degree at Hollins college and the A.M. degree at Radcliff. She taught in the public schools of Norfolk and at Ashley Hall in Charleston, S. C., before going to New Jersey.

Besides her other duties Miss Larmour is house director of Forest Hall.

Freshman Dean

The appointment of Miss Alice Cooke as director of admissions and dean of freshmen women, was announced in the CAMPUS last June. She is also house director of Hepburn Hall.

Other new house directors include Miss Marie Billings of Seal Harbor, Me., who is assistant house director of Forest Hall as well as being secretary in the office of the director of admissions.

College since 1925, died August 2 at his New York City home. Mr. Mead prepared for college at Middlebury High school and was graduated from Middlebury College in 1891 and then attended the University School in Chicago. He studied law at Harvard and in Chicago, being admitted to the bar in 1899.

Earl B. Krantz, superintendent of buildings and grounds at Middlebury since 1938, has resigned to return to work with the United States Department of Agriculture. At present he is in charge of the Morgan Horse Farm.

Mr. Krantz came to Middlebury from Washington, D. C. During his seven years here, Gifford Hall dormitory, and Munroe recitation hall have been erected, Weybridge infirmary for women established, and Old Chapel remodeled for centralization of administrative offices. With the incorporation of the navy unit during the past three years, Mr. Krantz has supervised the temporary alterations that have been made to accommodate the shifting numbers of trainees.

Mr. and Mrs. Krantz are planning to remain in their home in Cornwall.

Announcement has been made of the marriage of Evelyn Fox and Kurt R. Petshek on July 18 in Westminster, London.

tion. Taking this fact into consideration, it isn't too difficult to understand why the recording wasn't even a fair hit. The only thing worth hearing is Frank himself. He sings the very lovely ballad in an easy, unaffected style, pushing little or not at all. Sinatra is one of the only vocalists I have heard who gives me the impression that he has at least looked at the song before the recording time and has some idea as to what the composer had in mind. Believe me, he wants you, and I do mean you, to take him All or Nothing at All. Flash is the official title, but it doesn't make much difference.

Sings With Dorsey

The next step on the Sinatra road to fame is entitled Anything, with the companion side being called Another One of Them Things, both with Tommy Dorsey. On the A side, you'll hear one of the best

Immediately following selection of a varsity squad, new intramural basketball teams and games will be arranged. This will allow sophomores to complete their athletic requirements, while freshmen attend regular physical training classes. Intramurals in hockey will also be open to upper classmen and freshmen with a possibility of informal games against other New England colleges if sufficient interest is shown in the men's college.

CLUBS' MEETINGS NOW SCHEDULED

The following is the official calendar for meetings of all college organizations, drawn up by Humanities council.

Monday night—Sorority meetings.

Tuesday night—The Science club will meet every first and third Tuesday of every month; the Interfaith group on the second and fourth Tuesdays; the orchestra will rehearse every week at this time.

Wednesday night—SAA on the first and third Wednesdays; Tone on the second and fourth.

Thursday night—The French, Spanish, German and Russian clubs will meet on the first, second, third and fourth Thursday nights respectively; the choir will meet every Thursday night at 8.00.

Friday night—Forum on the first and third Fridays; Humanities on the second and fourth.

When there are concerts and plays that interfere with this schedule, each club will shift down a week so that no one club meeting will be omitted. This is possible since there are more than four weeks in each month. Although this calendar is not rigid, students are asked to recognize that these clubs have first rights to these nights and any activities planned on them must have their permission first.

Forum Chairman

Football Squad Plays 4 Games

Eleven Holds Own With Strong Rivals

In spite of a very limited supply of manpower and a comparatively light line and backfield team, Middlebury managed to have a football squad which concluded this season with a score of one victory, one tie and two losses.

R.P.I. Victorious

Middlebury opened its season against R.P.I. on September 15 with a home game at Porter field. The Panthers fought stubbornly against a team superior both in weight and available substitutes to a 12-6 defeat. The following week Coach Arthur M. Brown took his squad to Middletown, Conn., to play Wesleyan into a 0-0 stand-still. Once again the squad had been outweighed but not only did it prevail against Wesleyan, but went on to trounce Dartmouth's J. V. on September 29 with a six-point margin of 13-7, the final game played on the Middlebury field. The Blue and White's final tilt of the season was on October 6, against the University of Connecticut. Numerous fumbles and subsequent loss of territory caused a Middlebury defeat of 28-6 at the hands of the hard-hitting eleven at Storrs, Conn.

No permanent captain was chosen to head this year's eleven but instead a different man was selected to lead the team in each of its four contests. The five players who captained during the season were lettermen from last year's squad who had rejoined for another season. Jack Dineen AS, who held quarterback position, led the Blue and White at the R.P.I. contest, while Charles H. Regan A S, left tackle, replaced him at Wesleyan. Dan F. Cameron A S, and Joseph W. Reisler, right and left guards respectively, shared the lead against Dartmouth J.V. William S. Crawley, left end position, held first rank in the fall's closing game.

Slim Pickings

Considering that Middlebury had to select a varsity eleven from only 125 men as contrasted with an 1,800-man enrollment at R.P.I., and similar selections at the University of Connecticut and Dartmouth, Coach Brown expressed satisfaction with the squad's record. In addition, practice was limited to three or four nights a week for an hour each evening, and many of the navy men were restricted from practice by other duties. Top credit for the season was given to William Crawley LE, Jack Dineen QB, Tom Jenkins FB, and Donald MacLean '49, who made an outstanding performance at center position. Managers for the team were Joseph Meehan '49, and Thomas J. Whalen AS.

Mt. Club Hikes

Middlebury Mountain club has announced its schedule of fall hikes. It is as follows:

Oct. 28, Lake Placid and Silent Cliff.

Nov. 4, Mount Mansfield.

Nov. 11, Moosalamoo.

Nov. 18, Mount Horrid.

Nov. 25, Breadloaf Ski Hike.

Two Pictures Given To Art Department

Two framed photographs of the so-called Alexander Sarcophagus have been given to the Fine Arts department by Mr. and Mrs. Charles T. Riggs in memory of the late Miss Caroline Steele, resident and much esteemed figure in Middlebury life. The photographs are hung in the Fine Arts room of the library, in the interests both of archeology and art education.

These low reliefs are unique because they have preserved their original color. They depict two animated scenes of fighters and hunters, being of the late Grecian period. The emotional feeling of the sculptor, Skopas, shows clearly in the faint faces of the contestants.

Answer to Why

And that's the secret. That's why we are standing here now together in this enchanted place looking back over the early days of our love for Pooh and Christopher Robin and all their friends. We think of the days when we really understood just what it was to have no place to go and then go there or to have nothing to do and spend enchanted hours doing it. And we wish we could still be there and if we wish hard enough and believe long enough, why there we are. For there is everywhere and everywhere is right here where we are. It's never goodbye, and even though we didn't meet Owl face to face this time to ask him, I think we found out a lot about Heffalumps just the same. We can always go back and ask him some other time, you know. So, "of course, it isn't really Goodbye, because the Forest will always be there . . . and anybody who is Friendly with Bears can find it."

things the great man has done to date. For some unknown reason the record never sold anywhere near its potential. Dorsey's background is up to his usual high standard, not distracting from the vocal, but clever with its use of needs and muted brass and in good taste. The vocal, but clever with its use of reeds Sinatra. Tommy has a solo at the beginning which, in our humble opinion, is another asset to the record, but who can explain why the buying public does some of the things they do. The B side is a fine jazz. A Sy Oliver tune and arrangement, Another One of Them Things surpasses many of the classics done by Oliver in the service of Jimmy Lunceford in past years. It's a darned good session and still another reason why I can't understand the record's fall into the annals of the forgotten.

Songs from "Anchors Aweigh"

At the top of the ladder and bringing our chronology up to date, let's listen to one of Sinatra's latest, The Charm of You and I Fall in Love Too Easily. Both numbers are from "Anchors Aweigh" and both are sung by the Voice in that picture. The Charm is the lesser of the two sides. It's a fair record of a fair tune, but does real justice to neither. The reverse side is much better and more up to the things we have come to expect. I Fall in Love is sung with an eye to the meaning of the words.

That's it for this week, but be not discouraged. By the time next week's deadline rolls around, I hope we'll have made contact with the outside world and will be able to bring you the latest recordings. As you know, the local dealer handles only Victor and very few of those, but we're going to try to remedy that situation so you can run from reading our CAMPUS and snap up all the gems I try humbly to promote. The three records discussed this time are all available, or will be in a week or so and sadly lacking indeed is the Sinatra fan who doesn't find these recordings in his collection.

Miss Karen Gallowhur from Mount Kisco, N. Y., is house director of the Wright House which is now the German House, and Mrs. Ethel L. Demarest of the Sanford House. Mrs. Helen Wood of Atlantic City, N. J., is assistant director of Hepburn Hall.

Mrs. Josephine Richmond, from Boonton, N. Y., has been associated with Middlebury in the past as her daughter was a recent graduate. She has been appointed house director of Eaton House.

Also very familiar with the college is Miss Mary E. Wisotzskey who was a graduate in the class of '45. She comes from York, Pa., and is secretary in the Alumnæ office as well as being house director of Seeley House.

Dr. Evelyn Crosby

A new instructor has been added to the chemistry department, Dr. Evelyn Crosby. Miss Crosby was graduated from the University of Richmond, Richmond, Va., with the B.S. degree in 1942. From there she went to Woods Hole, Mass., to do work in an invertebrate zoology course. For her graduate work, Miss Crosby went to Cornell and received her Ph.D. She came directly to Middlebury from Cornell.

Miss Ruth A. Roberts, R.N., of West Newton, Mass., will be the new college nurse.

house. College song sheets were distributed among the audience and singing was conducted by Prof. Henry W. Bedford. On Thursday, following chapel service, an athletics and physical education discussion meeting was conducted by Coach Arthur M. Brown.

Midd Nite Tradition

Informal meetings of both men and women's groups took place Saturday night at the college's traditional "Midd Nite." The men's college held its smoker in McCullough gym while the women held their program at the Middlebury high school. Speeches by the heads of various activities on campus opened the men's gathering. The rest of the time was spent in eating doughnuts and singing college songs.

Of the men returning to Middlebury this fall, approximately 50 are veterans, entering either as freshmen and transfers, or as former Midd men beginning the "march back up on the hill." With living quarters filled to capacity, several of the men have had to find lodgings downtown, as have six married veterans who have enrolled in the college.
